Welcome to the 2016 Mountain West Regional Meeting of the Society of General Internal Medicine!

“Patient at the Center”

We are so excited that you are here! We extend a special welcome to first time attendees, residents, and medical students. I am pleased you have chosen to attend our conference this year and will take advantage of all this organization and region have to offer.

We have an exciting meeting planned for you. Inside this registration packet you will find your program schedule with specific times and locations for:

- Business Meeting
- Workshops
- Plenary, Keynote, Oral, and Invited Presentations
- Award Presentations
- Poster Session

In addition, we have several highlights this year that we hope you will attend:

- Keynote Address “Where is the Patient? Patient in the Center” presented by Tina Young, MD
- Updates in Primary Care and Hospital Medicine
- SGIM National / Health Policy Updates

We hope you enjoy our meeting and would appreciate any feedback and suggestions for future meetings to help us improve the quality of our regional efforts!

Thank you again for joining us this year. We hope you have a wonderful time!

Shakaib Rehman, MD
Mountain West SGIM Regional President

<td>Summary: This workshop will examine approaches to health care transformation at a large scale. Participants will learn about the legislative changes and approaches to be successful in the new paradigm of health care delivery. We will share our experiences in designing the curriculum to support change. Practicing physicians and administrators will learn about MACRA and MPIS and the systematic approach using data driven quality improvement. The workshop will focus on tools that practices can use to be successful in the health care delivery model.</td>

| Workshop A3 | There is more to life than 99214: Embrace the new world of Primary Care reimbursement!
Session Coordinator: Jeannine Engel, MD, Department of Medicine, University of Utah;
Additional Faculty: Mary McCord, MD, Department of Medicine, University of Colorado
Summary: The Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) wants to pay you and your practice for work you are already doing! Come learn about the new and revised service codes that will be reimbursed in 2017. While fee for service billing may be on its way out, CMS explicitly states that they want a better understanding of the specific type and value of work done by PCPs as the health system moves toward value-based payment. Don't miss out on revenue for your practice and a chance to demonstrate the value of Primary Care! |

| 2:00 pm - 2:15 pm | BREAK |

| 2:15 pm - 3:15 pm | CONCURRENT SESSION B
Workshop B1 | The Role of Therapeutic Humor in Mental Health
Session Coordinator: David Jacobson, MSW, Chief of Social Work, Phoenix VA Healthcare System
Summary: This session focuses on the use of humor in mental health with a specific focus on the post-trauma milieu. The physiological, psychological, and social benefits of using therapeutic humor will be explained. In addition, appropriate, healthy humor versus inappropriate, unhealthy humor will be defined and discussed. Finally, we will discuss and practice humor strategies that can be utilized to enhance one's use of therapeutic humor. |

| Workshop B2 | Boot Camp: Education for Transitioning Learners and Professionals
Session Coordinator: James Austin Jackson, Division of Hospital Medicine, University of New Mexico; Lauren Liaboe, Justin James Roesch, Division of Hospital Medicine, University of New Mexico; Jason Allen, Department of Internal Medicine, University of Utah School of Medicine
Summary: This workshop aims to improve the ability for physicians (and others) to administer effective feedback. Using interactive techniques in learning, participants will have a unique opportunity to learn about processes in feedback, cutting-edge techniques in delivering feedback, and practical skills that can be used in their day-to-day practice with learners, colleagues, and patients. After this workshop, attendees will know how feedback facilitates transformation of the learner, will be able to describe techniques in giving and receiving feedback, explain methods of delivering real-time and end-of-the rotation feedback, and be able to state methods of improving the specificity of comments on evaluations of learners. |

| Workshop B3 | Herbal and Dietary Supplements: Essential Tools for Screening Patients’ Supplement Use and Evaluating Safety and Efficacy
Session Coordinator: Carolyn Alden Foster, Additional Faculty: Lisa Corbin, Caroline LeClair, University of Colorado School of Medicine
Summary: This unique “crash course” in herbal and dietary supplements uses minimal time and resources to initiate conversations between patients and providers regarding patient supplement use. The information presented is geared to allow participants to develop the tools and resources required to handle patient scenarios related to herbals and supplements and to further their own education as needed. Finally, the curriculum provides information that a majority of current family medicine residents have indicated should be included in medical school education yet which only 46% of residents actually received, according to the study described in the longer session summary. This further emphasizes the innovative nature of the material presented. |
