Gina Luciano, MD, FACP
Candidate for New England SGIM President-elect

PERSONAL STATEMENT

Since becoming a member in 2014, SGIM has been integral to my career and I am proud to call SGIM my professional home. Over the course of my membership, I have been involved in SGIM as a scholar, leader and educator. On a regional level, I am proud to have been on the planning committee for the last three years of annual regional meetings: first as the course director of the Teaching Skills Retreat and most recently, as the region’s Secretary / Treasurer. I have also served as the co-chair of the Innovations in Medical Education Sub-Committee at the national level, and through generous SGIM stipends, I have been given the opportunity to spearhead #proudtobeGIM events at both the University of Massachusetts Medical School / Baystate Health as well as the Frank H. Netter MD School of Medicine. I have had wonderful experiences learning from and teaching with my SGIM colleagues at regional and national SGIM meetings. SGIM has truly become my professional home and I am honored to be eligible to further serve the region.

Through my experiences as the region’s Secretary / Treasurer, and as a primary care clinician, educator, and scholar I am well-prepared to continue to serve the New England region. I look forward to continuing to build upon our region’s commitment to advocacy and equitability, to continuing to strengthen and promote collaboration and networking within our region, and to continuing the tradition of delivering a fantastic educational meeting. It would be an honor to serve as your region’s President.

BIOSKETCH

Gina Luciano, MD, FACP is an associate professor and a primary care clinician-educator at Baystate Health. She is a native New Englander and a graduate of Dartmouth College and the University of Connecticut School of Medicine. Gina completed her residency and chief residency at Baystate Medical Center. She is a Harvard Macy Program for Educators in Health Professions alumna as well as a graduate of the Society of General Internal Medicine LEAD program.

After training, Gina became an associate program director for Baystate Health’s Internal Medicine Residency Program and then the Co-Director of Baystate’s Primary Care Residency Program. In this role, she won a Primary Care Innovation Challenge Award for the primary care curriculum. She was also integral in the development and accreditation of an internal medicine residency program at Mercy Medical Center.
In addition to a passion for primary care, Gina has a special interest in leadership growth and development. She has developed, implemented and published multiple programs and curricula around leadership skills, teaching skills, and professional growth and has experience presenting at the national and international levels.

The Society of General Internal Medicine has been an influential component of Gina’s career. Gina served as the co-chair of the Innovations in Medical Education Sub-Committee for the national meeting in 2015. Gina’s enthusiasm for primary care and SGIM is evident in her leadership of multiple #proudtobeGIM events. She has been the course director of the New England SGIM Teaching Skills Retreat in previous years and currently serves as the New England SGIM region’s Secretary and Treasurer.
